Skillcrush Break-Into-Tech Blueprint / 2018

Web Development/ Design

Skillcrush is a comprehensive self-paced web development/design program. This program taught me a deep understanding of front end languages such as HTML, CSS, and JavaScript. Version control using Git/Github was also a major focus along with the ability to work on a team of developers and share work using Git. On the design side, Adobe Illustrator, InDesign, and Photoshop were the main softwares taught for creating icons, logos, building brand style guides and everything else branding. The ability to create wireframes and build a functional website from a PSD were also of major focus. The most important skill that Skillcrush has taught me is the ease and importance of building webpages using WordPress and php. Using mock clients and situations, I have gained the knowledge and confidence to apply all of my development and design skills to the real world and build real clients the site of their dreams.
